One morning, Pati stood in front of the mirror. Her mother said, "Pati, every part of your body helps you. With your eyes, you can see the beauty of the forest, flowers, and trees."

Pati said, "Yes, it's wonderful to see everything!" Her mother continued, "With your ears, you hear birds chirping and wind whispering." Pati replied, "These sounds are fun!"

Her mother added, "With your nose, you can smell flowers and fresh soil after rain." Pati took a deep breath and said, "The flowers smell great!"

"And with your hands, you feel everything," her mother said. "Touching tells if something is rough or soft."

Pati looked at her hands and said, "Yes, I can play and hug everyone I love."

One morning, Kiki woke up feeling very happy. She looked out the window. The sun was shining, and the birds were singing. "What a beautiful day!" she said to herself. She wanted to go outside and play.
